Fleet tracking is always important to manage the trucks, or other fleet vehicles speed, time management, relationship between owner and driver, distance travelled, etc. This fleet management and tracking favours in preventing drivers in many ways such as accident prevention, avoidance of tedious routes, tracking clear view of the vehicles travel, etc.

There are devices that track the vehicle movement. The device consists of a chip which intimates the tracker in the form of an alarm tone when there is an emergency. Each part in the device is manufactured by multiple firms and also many large companies manufacture the whole set and release it as a single handy device.
